NEW MINISTER OPENS NEW SCHOOL (continued from page one)

The Department also made a loan of $35,000 at 3 1/2% interest. The balance of the needed money was raised by debenture. Actually the new building cost $155,779.06 and this totalled with the $40,000 for the Opera House brought the total to $204,709.89 or $30,000 more than the original estimate. The average bid first tendered on this project was about $10,000 more than the ultimate cost and it was stated that by doing a little adjusting on the manner in which the bids were accepted over $14,000 was saved by the Board. Actually the general contract was awarded to Oland Construction Co. of Lethbridge on a construction cost plus fixed fee bases. Mr. Anderson paid high tribute to Jerry Tudor who was in charge of construction and thanked Mr. Oland for his very fine services. He said that Mr. Tudor was almost regarded as a citizen of the town and that his work was sincerely appreciated.

A boys chorus directed by Mrs. Redd gave a very fine rendition of "Where 'Ere You Walk" with Patricia Strong as accompanist.

The former High School Inspector, E. H. Hinman was the next speaker and he told of his six years of visiting the school here and told of how lucky the students were because Mr. Olberg would very likely make the examinations very easy next year. He said that he was pleased to be an inspector even though inspectors are generally at odds with the ratepayers because they always try to get the best for the children. Mr. Hinman said that in his opinion they would never be a "hard-to-get-along-with" teacher in the new school because it was decorated in such nice colors and had such a friendly feeling. He urged the students to appreciate their opportunities and take advantage of them.

Students don't play hockey as in days gone by was the opinion expressed by L. C. Halmrast who said that during his school days he liked to go fishing during his arithmetic class. Mr. Halmrast gave a short report on the government's activities in the Department of Education and said that 30 million dollars had been spent on schools in the province during the past five years. He said that education was progressing favorably in the province and that the local School Board was to be highly commended for their part in the addition of fine schools throughout the province and that the rural students were getting a break now with the organization of larger school districts and divisions.

Mr. Halmrast then introduced the new Minister of Education, Mr. Olberg, and informed the public that this was the first official school opening for him. He said that Mr. Olberg was of Norwegian extraction (like himself) and that he had been a teacher and principal for a "few" years, mostly in the section north-east of Edmonton.

Forty minutes was the usual speaking time for a politician said Mr. Olberg but because of the lateness of the hour he would cut his talk down a little. He said that this was his first official trip in the south and that he had enjoyed a tour around the country during the morning and had been taken on a tour of that "big sweet institution" on the north-east corner of town and had been very impressed with what he saw. In speaking of the new school Mr. Olberg said that all those who had anything to do with its planning and construction had a right to be really proud of their achievement. Young people are really lucky during their years of school life—their facilities are so much better than have ever been enjoyed by any other generation. The friends and companionships made and the wonderful experience of growing up in peaceful and happy surroundings make the school days the best of a person's life and the most (and best) remembered things of life are those friendships and pals.

M. Olberg, who is intimately acquainted with the vast riches of Alberta's natural resources, said that the natural resource of the greatest value was the boys and girls of today who will be the men and women of tomorrow.

Just before he formally declared the new school open he told the assembled crowd of students and citizens that he would send a framed picture in full color of the Parliament Buildings in Edmonton to be hung in the school.

Mrs. Redd's High School Chorus rendered another pleasing selection and Mr. Olberg cut the ribbon across the doors leading into the new section and the deed was done.

Just before the crowd rose to sing "The Queen, Mr. Snow introduced the member of the School Board and other dignitaries.

"A very valuable citizen"

When a bank manager was transferred recently a group of citizens wrote the bank in tribute to his sense of public service:

"During the time he was here, we found him to be a very valuable citizen. He always took a deep interest in our community, so we feel we have lost a valuable asset. However, we feel sure that his replacement will be made with a man of similar calibre."

A bank man, by the very nature of his work, becomes part of the life around him. During his training in various branches, and as he takes on growing responsibilities, he learns more and more about people and how his bank can help them. And he brings to his community his personal readiness to serve in any way he can.

Notes From Your District Home Economist

MISS LILA ENGBERG

The C.A.C.

The C.A.C. is the Canadian Association of Consumers—a National organization created in 1947 to represent the Canadian Consumers. It is sponsored by leading women's organizations and has more than 13,000 individual members. Membership is open to every woman in Canada for an annual fee of 50 cents.

What does C.A.C. do?

C.A.C. tells consumers what they should know in order to buy wisely. They tell governments what kind of laws consumers want for their protection. They tell the manufacturer what the consumer finds wrong with his product.

Here are some of the things C.A.C. has done—

1. In 1949 when a sharp reduction in the number of "family size" (20 oz.) cans seriously inconvenienced many consumers, C.A.C. went to the industries concerned. As a result, the pack of 20 oz. cans was doubled in the following season and has continued to increase.

2. They were successful in getting Parliament to pass the bill regarding the marking of the net weight of contents on the soap and detergent packages. This I mentioned in last week's newsletter.

3. There are new regulations governing flour and bread which will come into effect on January 1st, 1953. (taken from C.A.C.'s bulletin)

A. Flour may be of six different kinds: 1. White flour. 2. Enriched white flour. 3. Vitamin B white flour. 4. Enriched vitamin B white flour. 5. Entire wheat flour. 6. Graham flour.

B. Bread may be of seven different kinds:

1. White bread.
2. Enriched white bread is bread baked from a dough in which enriched flour is the only flour used and shall contain not less than 2% by weight of the flour used, of skim milk solids.
3. Vitamin B white bread, Canada approved shall be bread baked from a dough in which Vitamin B white flour, Canada approved, is the only flour used and shall contain not less than 4% by weight of flour of skim milk solids.

4. Enriched vitamin B white bread is bread in which the only flour used is enriched vitamin B white flour.

5. Raisin bread shall contain in each pound of bread not less than 5 oz. of seeded or seedless raisins and currants, of which not less than 3.5oz. shall be raisins and may contain spices and peel.

6. Whole wheat bread must have 60% of the total weight of the flour used whole wheat, and the percentage of whole wheat is to be indicated.

7. Brown bread shall be bread colored by the use of whole wheat flour, graham flour, bran, molasses, caramel or a combination of them, and the label shall indicate the percentage of whole wheat flour used, or state that it is made without whole wheat flour and colored with whatever ingredient is used.

When the new regulations come into effect the end of this year, it will then be up to consumers to read and study the labels on the different varieties of flour and bread which may be offered for sale, and select those which best serve the tastes and nutritional needs of their families.

C.A.C. is now working on several buying problems. One is standardization of sizes for children's and women's clothing.

If you have become a member of C.A.C. you will receive a monthly report on their activities and information for you—the consumer. The address is—

Canadian Association of Consumers,
1245 Wellington Street,
OTTAWA 3, Ontario.

Everyone is a consumer. We can learn to buy wisely if we know where to go for help and information.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fairbanks Dr. and Mrs. Harlan Taylor were travelled to Edmonton where they business visitors in Calgary a few days visited Hazel, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fairbanks and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fairbanks last week.

A short while ago the employees of a textile company set up a bit of a milestone in labor history. They had been on strike for about three months. Certain members of the union, still under the influence of the powerful communist bloc in its leadership, though that leadership had been changed some time ago, were holding grimly to the thinking of the past and were demanding terms that virtually would have destroyed the company.

But the workers as a whole were neither friendly to this leftist thing nor in accord with these extravagant demands. They wanted fair terms, and they wanted to get back to work. But how to achieve this? Finally it was decided to hold a secret ballot where the influence of the aggressive leftist few would be largely lost. The vote was so taken. It stood 2,006 to return to work at the company's last offered terms to 143 opposing. In addition there were 125 spoiled ballots that might have been on either side. So work was resumed at 11 cents an hour increased wage, which was pretty well what might have been had months earlier.

The evidence in this case was that only the minority was unreasonable, and only a small minority strike minded. But the majority voice couldn't be heard because of the threat inherent in the minority opinion. The closed ballot gave the majority its chance to be heard. That surely is something for the steady and sober worker to reflect upon.

THE SUFFERING MALES

After 4,000 years or more of trying, man hasn't designed comfortable and functional business clothing, replies to a Financial Post question seem to indicate. As to what reforms these Canadians would suggest, some would pull out the stops: Kilts on the golf course, shorts at the office, removal of shoulder pads and other build-ups or slimming devices for frank, yet honest, simple, cheaper, and more freedom-giving attire.

Clothing experts strike a serious note. On the way, it's indicated, are slimmer, trimmer, lighter-weight designs.

The ladies extend sympathy, give the nod to men to take it off, leave it off, or loosen it up.

This year the weather has been little short of perfect.

The growing season for a lot of things left nothing to be desired and one of the things to benefit most from the ideal fall weather was an Easter lily owned by Mrs. S. B. Card.

At Easter it had five blooms and after spending the long summer days out of doors it was taken into the house again and toward the end of October it showed its appreciation for kind treatment by bursting forth with eleven blooms.
